State of Evaluation 2010

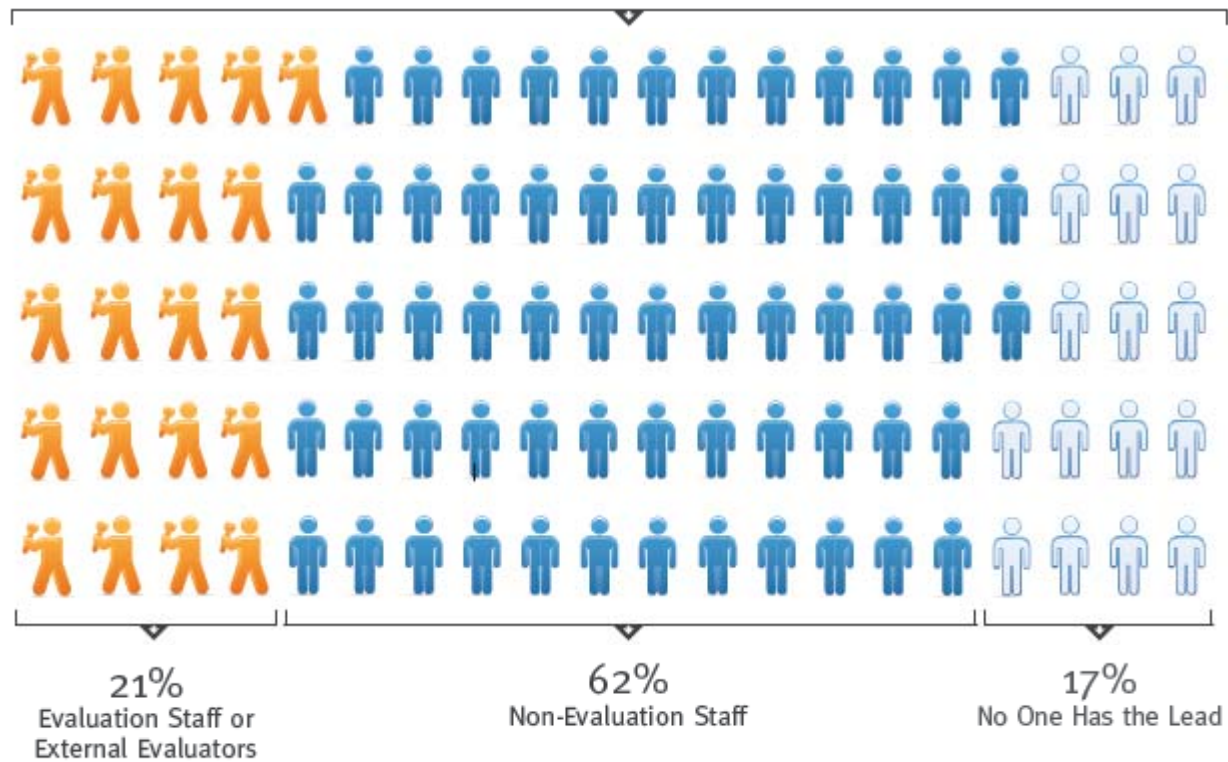

EVALUATION PRACTICE AND CAPACITY IN THE NONPROFIT SECTOR

Evaluation is the second lowest organizational priority—
only more important than research. (n = 753)

Only 13% of nonprofit organizations have at least one full-time employee dedicated to evaluation. (n = 899)

Professional evaluators are responsible for evaluation in only 21% of organizations. (n = 899)

Last year, 1 in 8 organizations spent no money on evaluation.

(n = 858)

Less than a quarter of organizations devote the minimum recommended amount of 5% of their budget to evaluation.

(n = 858)

36% of nonprofit respondents reported that none of their funders supported their evaluation work. (n = 858)

Half of organizations reported having a logic model or theory of change, and more than a third of organizations created or revised the document within the past year. (n = 452)

Evaluation Purpose

What is Effectiveness?

Adapted from Toward a Common Language: Listening to Foundation CEOs and Other Experts Talk About Performance Measurement in Philanthropy.
The Center for Effective Philanthropy, 2002.

The Issue of Effectiveness

1. On what research or evidence did the organization design its programs?
2. What information does the nonprofit collect about the results of its programs?
3. How does the organization systematically analyze the information it collects?
4. How has the nonprofit adjusted its activities in response to new information?
5. Does the organization have an absolute focus on producing results?

How does Evaluation differ From Rating?

- ✓ Audience (one organization vs. many)
- ✓ Purpose (compliance vs. external decision-making)
- ✓ Rigor (dependent on the evaluation/rating format)
- ✓ Cost (amount and who pays)
- ✓ Questions asked (how/why of impact vs. yes/no)
- ✓ Experience and expertise of assessor

"EW!USA makes a difference in the lives of countless through a very simple belief of one child, one book, and one reader. This simple connection drives fantastic results. The excitement that is generated for learning in children when an adult takes the time to read is unmatched. Nobody does it better than EW!USA ..."

I have been volunteering with this organization for the past 15 years or so. At first I was part of a church group that prepared meals a few times each year, when the current director took over in 2002, he asked if was possible to help with meal planning and food preparation more often. At that time...

Questions for Break-out Groups

1. Is it possible to develop meaningful common measures for a field as diverse as the nonprofit sector?
2. What can we learn from the experiences of fairly well-known, sector-wide approaches such as Charity Navigator, Great Nonprofits, etc?
3. What is the effect of nonprofit rating systems on traditional program evaluation? What might a relationship look like?
4. What would the ideal nonprofit ratings system take into consideration when computing rankings?
5. What can we learn and apply to our own work from this discussion?
